Weymouth March 16. 1842.

Dear Emma,

I've recd Harveys letter to-day pr stage & hasten to answer it. I've rejoiced to hear of his womans well doing. What kind of a time did she have? I have not seen any [redacted] I have just been up and [redacted] all [redacted] but could see nothing of [redacted] you know I never [redacted] so had no temptation to take [redacted]. There is [redacted] Lucia which shall come in on saturday It came into my possession when Lucia [redacted] as there was no outcry when I went to Duxbury I think it must [redacted]. Did you get the great trunk safe? did the letter go to N.B.? Has nothing been heard from Mr Emerson yet. Send his letter to me pr mail the moment it comes, even if it is directed to Caroline for I shall not allow her to act without my cognisance. I enclose a letter to E.L.L. to me to which Caroline sent by the Faithful. All here are full of the meeting on monday we have planned our line of March. Every thing plain before us but the Entry — the front entry. All the eating is to be done at the vestry & a very good way it is I think. If any one wants to stay all night we can you know accomodate one. Get Wendell to come if you can. Tell him the oysters shall be put off on his account. Get every body to come that you can. Who delivers the next lecture? Remond is it not? & our son lecture I mean. I think Remond acted like a fool out here, calling people right & left rascals and scoundrels, & attacking people so much not on account of the donation party, but for having it the night he lectured, when the whole thing was arranged before they knew he was coming. & even if they had known it to complain as Remond did seems to me like noticing an ass' kick. But perhaps I am slightly indignant with Remond at this moment from what Elias Richards said. Aunt Mary was numbering the speakers, & said she supposed Remond could not come, as he was to lecture in Boston. Oh he will come said Elias, he has positively promised to come. I have seen him two or three times about it. Aunt Mary brought up the engagement in Boston again Oh I dont doubt he will come here says Elias & break his engagement there. It will be like Remond to do it. Now I dont think he will at all, yet I thought I would write you word he was engaged to come here. I hope the Hutchinsons can come, for there will be a place provided for them to stay Mary Pfield is on thorns to have them they could give a concert here the next night, sending word round to the different parishes & notifying to the meeting. They need only sing enough to give people a taste for more. Elish Anne if she can think of any thing better than to leave the entry just as it is, & simply state we are going to building & are preparing to throw the house out of the windows. If the Hutchinsons come cant you let the Kingmans know they are coming, They will come out if they can & that will swell the meeting. I send you your worsted & the note paper. Aunt Mary says she has written all the news so I will not attempt any thing. Lucretia's face is swelled up very bad. Ma's affections still run upon Joshua's children. I called at Aunt C's to-day. I would marry Holmes under the same circumstances at an hours notice — The Pfields are every thing that is agreeable. Did you see that notice of Mrs Child in the Courier — I should think she would blush all over.

MS.A.2.1.7.43

Lizzie behaves remarkably well for her I told Ma we were doing the most that could be done for you taking her away. She writes, sews & brushes her teeth every day Ma says Hervey must be sure & bring off every thing he owns from his boarding

Harvard College Library
Boston
Mass.

Harvard Univ.
March 16 1874

place, especially the air-tight. Hervey must send word if this jacket fits—ever yours D. W.
I shall expect the long letter Saturday
Give my love to my idol. She must write

MS. A. 9.2.17.43